HISTORICAL BACKGROUND

The Mennonite Brethren Church in North America first organized a mission board in 1884. The conference at the time did not send out its own missionaries, and so this board raised money from the churches and forwarded it to Mennonite Brethren missionaries affiliated with other organizations.

The conference took its first steps toward organizing a Mennonite Brethren mission field in 1889, when it appointed a committee to locate a mission field among North American Indians. In 1894 the Post Oak Mission was established in Oklahoma among the Comanche tribe.

The North American Mennonite Brethren Church sent its first overseas foreign missionaries to Cameroon in 1896. The conference had yet to organize its own overseas foreign mission fields and so sent these missionaries under the German Baptist Mission Society. In 1899 the conference established the first overseas mission work of its own in India.

In 1900 the Mennonite Brethren Church adopted a constitution and articles of incorporation for its foreign mission organization, which took the name "American Mennonite Brethren Mission Union." The conference as a whole had not incorporated itself before this time, and so this marked the first such action for the MB Church in North America. In 1909 the conference dissolved the separate corporate status of the "Union" and amended the articles to include the entire "Mennonite Brethren Church of North America," of which the mission board was one part.

During its early years, the committee responsible for foreign missions was generally called the "Heidensmission Komitee" ("The Heathen Mission Committee"). By 1936 its name had been formalized as "The Board of Foreign Missions."

Until 1919 the Mennonite Brethren Church maintained foreign mission programs only in Oklahoma and India. In that year the conference adopted a work in south China begun in 1911 by F. J. and Agnes Wiens. Not until 1943 did the board enter another new field, when the conference adopted the mission work begun in 1912 by A. A. and Ernestine Janzen in the Belgian Congo. Following World War II the scope of Mennonite Brethren foreign mission work expanded greatly. During the second half of the 1940s the conference entered Paraguay, Colombia, and Brazil. Programs established in the 1950s included Japan, Germany, Austria, Mexico, and Ecuador.

(Record Group A250: MB Mission North American administrative records)

In 1966 the Board of Foreign Missions and the Board of General Welfare and Public Relations (Record Group A260) merged into a single board the Board of Missions and Services (BOMAS). With this merger, the Board of Missions and Services took responsibility for the Christian Service program of the MB Church, which since 1960 had been under the jurisdiction of the Board of General Welfare and Public Relations. Christian Service remained the responsibility of BOMAS until 1979, when it was transferred to the Canadian and United States conferences.

Since the early 1980s the organization has been known as Mennonite Brethren Missions/Services (MBM/S), and later Mennonite Brethren Missions/Services International (MBMSI). More recently it adopted its present name, MB Mission.

SCOPE AND CONTENTS OF THE COLLECTION

This subgroup contains North American administrative records of MB Mission dating back roughly to 1900. It also contains all records of the Christian Service program, even though this program was under the Board of General Welfare and Public Relations before 1967.

ORGANIZATION AND ARRANGEMENT OF THE COLLECTION

Subgroup I is organized into eight series: I. Constitutions, bylaws, articles of incorporation; II. Minutes and reports of the board and its committees; III. Subject files; IV. Financial records; V. Publications; VI. Personnel files; VII. Audio-visual materials; VIII. Photographs.

This record group also is organized into thirty additional subgroups containing records of the Christian Service Program and records relating to regions or countries in which MB Mission personnel have served. Each of these subgroups have their own finding aids.
